Community Resource Guide

The staff at Neuse Regional Libraries has worked diligently to create a Community Resource Guide for the counties that it serves. "There are many organizations throughout our communities that exist to help out when individuals and families are most in need," states Melanie Morgan, Director of Libraries. "Whether it's assistance with housing, food security, employment, or mental health, there are people and places here in Eastern North Carolina that specialize in providing valuable assistance."

Age-Friendly Certificate

Thank you, Livable Lenoir Aging Coalition, for your dedication to enriching the lives of all residents in Lenoir County. They have collaborated with AARP and other organizations to enhance existing services and to empower volunteers to create programs that support individuals in aging safely and independently within our community. Through their joint efforts, Lenoir County has been certified as an age-friendly county.

Biscuitville is Coming to Kinston!

Biscuitville is coming to the corner of Heritage Street and Plaza Boulevard. The family-owned fast food chain known for its scratch-made, fresh-baked biscuits has locations in North Carolina, South Carolina, and Virginia. In addition to biscuits, they serve brunch as well as ready-to-serve catering. An opening date has not been announced.

2023 KPD Annual Report

"As we reflect on the past year, we are proud to announce that our city has once again demonstrated its commitment to public safety. By implementing innovative crime-detering procedures and working hand in hand with our citizens, we were able to decrease violent crime in 2023. This is a testament to the hard work and dedication of our officers and community partners who have worked tirelessly to make Kinston a safe and welcoming place to live, work, and visit," states Chief Goyette in the report.

"This Annual Report is not just a reflection of the previous year. It provides insight on the future as well. As we move into 2024 and beyond, I look forward to developing innovative strategies to reduce crime and minimize fear in our community."
